

Dragsters have special ways to help themselves to get happier. They stay still, open their eyes and look carefully around them. They always discover new things.

Sometimes they close their eyes and imagine amazing things.

At other times they just drive around and find something interesting or exciting to do.

